

“If your instructions hadn’t sustained me with joy, I would have died in my misery.”

– Psalm 119:92_{NLT}

O God, in Jesus’ name, I pray that even as I am walking through affliction right now, that you would show your delight in your law when everything around me may be falling apart. Regardless of my health, expectations, relationships, career, and family being a struggle point right now, I pray that your law, your truth, your comfort, and your word would be my delight. I praise you for your word in the middle of my affliction. If I didn’t have it to stand on as a rock, I would perish in suffering. Thank you that your law is my delight.

“Even perfection has its limits, but your commands have no limit.”

- Psalm 119:96_{NLT}

O God, everything around me, even that which looks so good, has a limit to its perfection, but not your word. Your word is limitless in its perfection. Your word is exceedingly broad. There is no limit to your perfections in your word. I worship you, and I lift my heart to your word because it is perfect, infinitely perfect. Thank you that your limitless word breaks every limiting lie of the enemy over my life, in Jesus’ name.

“How sweet your words taste to me; they are sweeter than honey.”

- Psalm 119:103_{NLT}

O God, your word is better than the best food I could even imagine today. It is sweeter than the sweetest food I could imagine today. Your word is so good to me—providing me nourishment and everything I need to be a successful servant of you and others. May I be sustained and fulfilled in your word today, in the name of Jesus.

“Your word is a lamp to guide my feet and a light for my path.”

– Psalm 119:105_{NLT}

O God, I praise you. I praise you for your leadership in my life today. Guide me, lead me, and direct me by your word in every way. I pray that in everything I do in my life, my family, my work, and in your church would have your supernatural leading from your Word. God, your word is the standard that supersedes my feelings, desires, and preferences. God, please cause your word to be a light to me in a dark world where and when I don’t know what to do. May your word be my light today, in the mighty name of Jesus.

“You are my refuge and my shield; your word is my source of hope.”

– Psalm 119:114_{NLT}

Father, today I place my hope in your word. Everything around me that I know is slowly but surely passing away. This world and so much in it passing away. It is not reliable. My hope is in your word which is totally and completely reliable—a firm foundation that will never end. Jesus, you made a promise that “Heaven and earth will pass away, but your word will not pass away,” Matthew 24:35. All glory be to your name because of the hope I have in your everlasting word!

“I rejoice in your word like one who discovers a great treasure.”

– Psalm 119:162^{NLT}

Father, every single day, when I open up your word, I find treasure—like the spoils of war. God, I praise you for this. May my heart leap as I engage with your word and you speak to me. I fully expect for revelation, joy, and great confidence to fill my heart each time I read, pray, and declare your word over my life and the lives of others. I choose to rejoice over your word like I have found buried treasure! I thank you for the privilege of experiencing this treasure!

“Great peace have those who love Your law, and nothing causes them to stumble.”

– Psalm 119:165^{NKJV}

God, I praise you for the peace you have promised to me because I love your laws. Your commands are a delight to me. I thank you that your peace overshadows the chaos and confusion that may be surrounding me at my current season of life. Give me an even deeper love for your law. Because I love your word, I will not stumble or find myself living in offense. I will follow in an even greater way this year because I am choosing to love your word!
